

COLUMBIA BAPTIST BIBLE ASSOCIATION MEET SUNDAY

IMPORTANT MEETING PLANNED FOR CHURCHES OF COLUMBIA ASSOCIATION

Beginning on Sunday, March 27 and continuing on four days, there will be held with the Columbia Baptist church a Bible and Christian workers conference. This meeting is authorized by the Columbia Baptist Association at its session last fall, and the program prepared by its Executive Committee. The committee has spared no pains in securing for this conference some of the strongest speakers that could be found. The program is so arranged as to give proper treatment to every phase of modern church work as well as Bible study.

Two streams, Sunday School workers, will speak daily on some of the special phases of the Sunday School problem. Mr. Harry I. Stedland and Mr. Bryan Davis, employees of the Alabama Baptist State Convention.

Rev. J. H. Chapman, the new assistant secretary of the state mission board, Rev. H. B. Woodward, of Louisville, Ala. and Rev. James W. Woodhouse, Jr., of Atlanta, who has made several trips to the Holy Land, will also be speakers. Besides these, Rev. Jennings and Partridge of Dothan, together with other ministers of the county will take part.

Rev. C. M. Brittain, pastor of the Columbia church, will preside.

Through this meeting, the Executive Committee urges upon every church and Sunday school in the Association to send representatives. The number allowed is unlimited. It is hoped that every minister, Superintendent, teacher in the Sunday School, missionary society workers and in fact every Christian who is interested in intellectual and spiritual growth will attend. Never before perhaps has there been brought to this section a choice of speakers better prepared to stimulate and enlighten along lines of Christian conduct. The entire four days from Sunday through Wednesday will be filled full of inspiration and instruction. Do not forget the date, March 27th through April 3rd.

NOTED BREED OF CHICKENS
Fowl Imported From Europe. First Year's Age. Has Golden Mark. Presented Among American Fanciers.

After reading the article in the Dothan Eagle on the subject of the importation of the Golden Mark chickens, I was very much interested in the subject.

This breed has a lot of interest in the poultry world. It was imported from Europe. It is a very young breed and is very much valued in America. It is a very fine breed and is very much valued in America.

Ancona Cockerel

One of those who look upon the Ancona side of the beautiful Dothan and ever since had a very high opinion of the breed. The beautiful form and graceful conformation give it a place among the prime favorites of the poultry world.

The competitive show in the poultry world is a very much valued in America. It is a very
valued in America.

These birds are very much valued in America. It is a very
valued in America.

They are active and hardy and out doubt should be in close contact of any breeder. Their eggs hatch the highest percent of chicks. The chicks run fast from the hatching to the adult stage.

Young cockerels often grow to the early age of six weeks. Poultry frequently lay when 5 months old.

Ancona Hen

When properly cared for it is a very valued in America. It is a very
valued in America.

WINTER CARE OF THE DUCKS

Feed Any Green Stuff That Happens to Be Handy—Not Much of Any One Plant Given at Time

During winter I feed my ducks green stuff that I happen to have handy. Turnip tops and carrot tops, cabbage leaves, beet leaves, onion tops, parsnip leaves, tender cabbage leaves, radish leaves, mustard leaves, all make good bulky feed.
These are dried in the shade during the summer and stored like hay. When I want to feed them a quantity, I boil for 12 hours and mixed with finely cut roots, such as parsnip turnips, carrot tops and beets. Apples are also used, such as water in the Orange food I use. These are all cooked. Not much of one kind of plant is given at a time. I use a mixture of any one with four or five chop to each of wheat bran, red wheat shorts and boiled fresh meat are fed as a mash—all the ducks will eat up clean in few minutes. If any of the mash is left it is at once removed to avoid its getting sour. This feed is given twice daily during the winter and three times in spring. It is always proved satisfactory.

GREEN FEEDS YEAR AROUND

Nothing Better Than Well Cured Clover Hay or Second Growth Clover Hay—Bran Is Substitute

There is nothing better than well cured clover hay or second growth clover hay. This should be cut up finely and steamed. Clover is not only highly nutritious but rich in lime, a substance required by the fowls for providing shells for the eggs. Aside from alfalfa there is no other feed that can take the place of clover in allowing a million of its better habits beneath it will keep in better health condition and the production of eggs will be increased. While clover hay cannot be secured here is a very good substitute though not so rich in mineral matter.

Vegetable food should be supplied the year around, such as cabbage, potatoes, beets and turnips.
